

Problem Statement:

While ambitious people have the ability to create goals, they often have difficulty knowing how to start working towards them.

Description:

The most frustration people have when it comes to making goals is the lack of knowledge of how to start working towards them. I observed this through my family and peer constantly setting goals for themselves, but then going onto to not work towards them once they realize they don't know how.